

This is not a recommendation. I am off to lunch with Ron Coby today, author of Discover the Upside of Down: Investment Strategies for Volatile Times (Wiley 2008). He writes "Buy gold and gold stocks only on price corrections to their respective long-term uptrend lines. When extreme speculative price spikes occur, maintain a core position, but trim back your exposure... and rebuy when the next base forms." That means we are looking to buy gold around $750/oz.

As promised, here is more about gold from Ron Coby, author of Discover the Upside of Down: Investment Strategies for Volatile Times (Wiley 2008). He thinks the time has come for buying junior gold stocks because "the big gold companies have raised a lot of money and can buy them." He cited the IAM Gold bid for OZN assets and added "there will be a lot of Orezones". His managed funds ($50,000 minimum) are invested in other junior golds and have been in them for a while: Nevison (NSU), New Gold (NGD), Minefinders (MFN), and above all Great Basin A (GBG). All trade on the Alternext. These are his recommendations, but I have not looked into the companies.
